

Welcome to the Fourth Edition of Edwisely Newsletter!

News from Edwisely:

New Version Launch:

We are extremely excited and proud to launch the new version of Edwisely, an Intelligent Learning Platform, available for Android and iOS devices. With the latest product, we are bringing a paradigm shift in the perspective of people on engineering education.

With a global engineering curriculum, a well curated knowledge bank along with assessments for every topic, a student's way of learning engineering will change tremendously. The Edwisely team did an exceedingly good job in curating world-class content in both learning and assessments. Our learning technology is heading in a direction to set a benchmark in learning science.

MIT Research Partnership:

Our team is happy to inform that Edwisely is now an official Research Partner - MIT Mapping Lab (Fly-by-Wire and Crosslinks)

We are extremely glad to have this Global Research Partnership with Massachusetts Institute of Technology given the dire need to improve the quality of higher education in India.

We have some insightful research findings on how we can create a great learning experience for students and improve their learning.

We collaborated with the Education Research Centres at MIT, Boston to enable personalized and adaptive learning in engineering education. The journey of Edwisely towards creating an Accelerated Learning Platform for engineering education had some of the most helpful and innovative educationists.

We are happy to deliver a solution that will improve learning outcomes and make overall engineering education quality better.

Mr. BVR Mohan Reddy guides Edwisely:

Mr. BVR Mohan Reddy is the Founder of Cyient — an engineering services company based out of India with notable clients like The Boeing Company.

On the occasion of World Entrepreneurs' Day, Edwisely in collaboration with Startup Grind has invited him for a Fireside Chat. Needless to say, the entrepreneurs who gathered were blown away by his perspective — on education, business and life alike.

During the conversation with Yashwanth, CEO of Edwisely, when Mr. Reddy was asked about how higher education in India needs to be improved, he responded saying that there is huge skill gap between the outgoing students and industry requirements. This skill gap needs to be bridged by improving learning experience of students through Adaptive Technologies, AI etc. He also spoke about numerous things starting with how Cyient came into being, issues they were trying to solve in the Business World, concerns regarding current Higher Education system and his suggestions to Young Entrepreneurs.

About Edwisely:

Edwisely is an Edu-technology, that enables engineering students learn faster, more efficiently, and have fun.

Edwisely envisions to be at the pinnacle of continuous learning and assessment platforms. With efficient learning methods and connectivity modules, we strive to become a pioneering education ecosystem.

Sincerely,
Team Edwisely
